

ES Architects designed and revitalized this hospital's cardiovascular institute expansion using HIMACS Aurora Bianco, creating seamless, rounded surfaces that echo the hospital's signature curves. The durable, hygienic, and elegant material was chosen for its ability to achieve complex forms, subtle veining, and a calming aesthetic, harmonizing new spaces with the original oak paneling.

The project's highlight is the striking lobby counter and intricately designed desks, all crafted from thermoformed HIMACS Aurora Bianco, ensuring both visual impact and functional resilience. This transformation establishes this hospital as a modern hub for cardiovascular care, enhancing both patient experience and architectural excellence.
